FORUM DESCRIPTION

This one-day forum is designed to inspire, equip, and connect church leaders, faith-based practitioners, and community workers who are navigating the tension between urgent needs and the deeper call to be present. Together, we'll explore what it means to faithfully practice presence in our neighbourhoods and organizations while resisting the constant pull toward outcomes, numbers, and quick fixes.

What to expect:

- Inspiring voices from the Social Transformation Hub collective, faith leaders, and community practitioners sharing real stories and lived experience
- Interactive workshops that are practical, skill-focused, and story-driven
- Collaborative conversations with peers who share a commitment to justice, compassion, and transformation
- Fresh strategies and encouragement for sustaining hope and presence in complex community contexts

Who Should Attend:

- Community leaders & workers
- Staff from faith-based or secular non-profit organizations
- Social workers, justice and addiction practitioners
- Volunteers & grassroots organizers (e.g., food banks, local initiatives)
- Therapists and spiritual care practitioners
- Anyone looking for practical tools to create meaningful community impact
